Estate Planning

Although considerable emphasis is placed on wealth creation and protection, a vital aspect of your financial strategy is the control of the manner in which your wealth will be distributed after your death.

The expression "Estate planning" represents the concept of the planning and documentation of your wishes for the distribution of your wealth following death, whether the assets are held personally or controlled by related entities such as trusts or companies.

Estate planning is a specialised area, and it is important that you obtain professional advice in relation to all areas of your estate plan. However we outline below some of the issues you should consider in designing your estate plan.

Wills and Testamentary Trusts

A Will is the first step in ensuring that the distribution of your estate is actioned in accordance with your wishes. If you die without a Will (intestate), it may be that a court will control both the manner of distribution of your estate and the persons to whom your estate is distributed, and this can cause unnecessary distress.

Both of you currently have basic Wills in place.

Recommendation:

- We have an arrangement with Lakeside Lawyers Pty Ltd who can assist with the implementation of appropriate Wills as soon as possible.

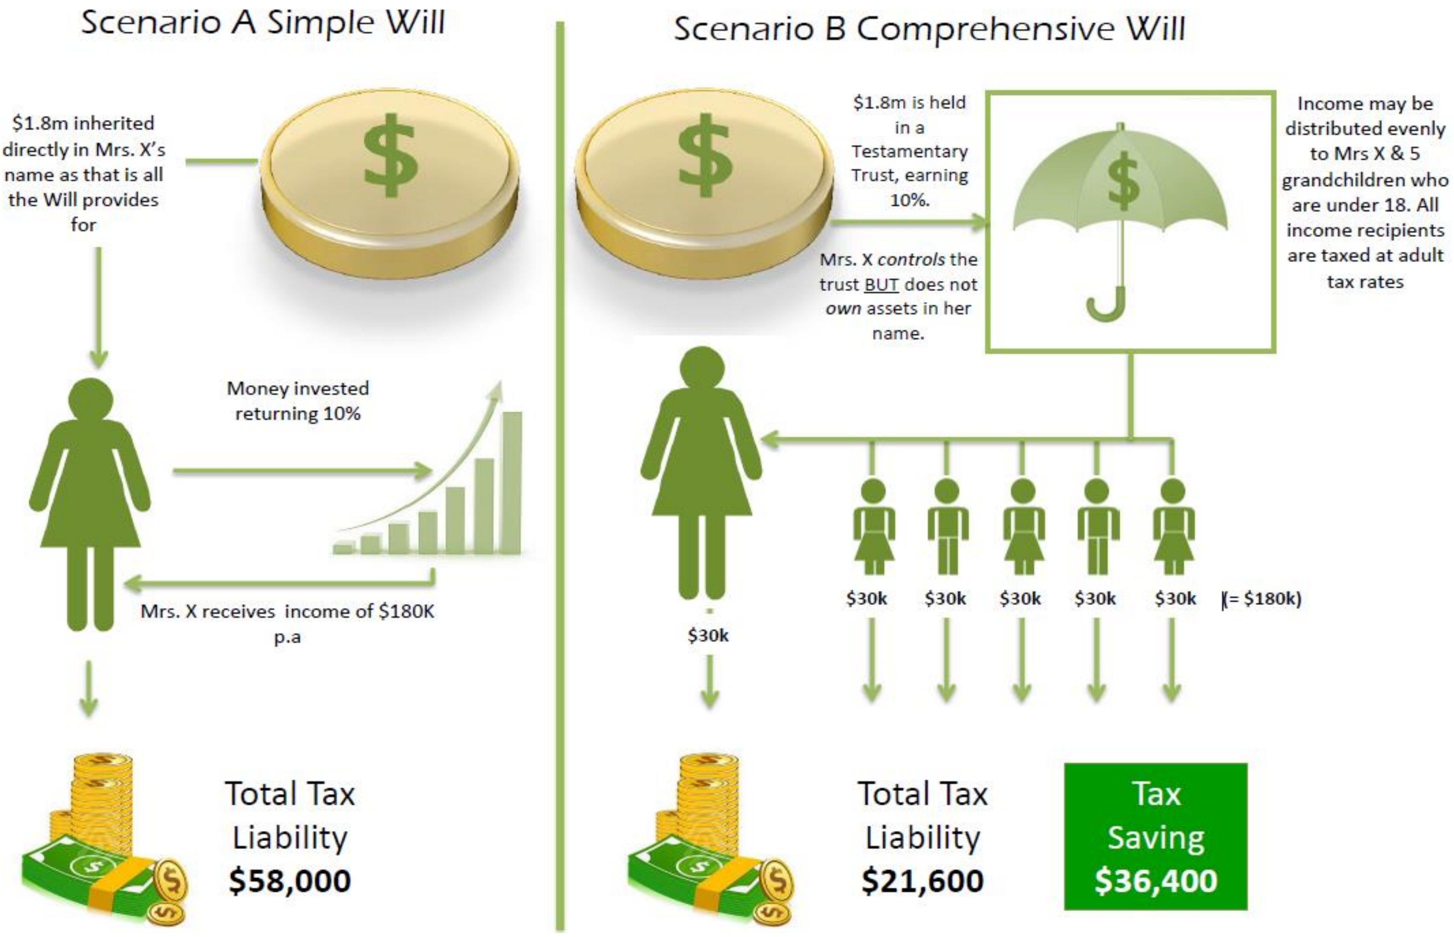
It is important to ensure your Will:

- Nominates executors (and substitute executors) who are likely to survive you and who clearly understand your wishes.
- Nominates beneficiaries in relation to every segment of your estate and nominates alternative beneficiaries should your primary beneficiaries predecease you.
- Bequeaths monetary value or a percentage of your estate rather than a specific asset, as there is the risk that an asset may not be in existence at the time of distribution of the estate.
- Includes provision for the establishment of a testamentary trust, which can be a tax effective tool for distributing your estate.

For an illustration of inner workings of a Will that allows for Testamentary Trust Provisions, please refer to the diagram below.



Disadvantages of a simple Will:

- Tax ineffective
- If Mrs. X starts a new marriage OR de facto relationship 50% of the assets may be up for grabs
- No opportunities to adapt to changing financial or lifestyle circumstances
- In the event of Mrs. X dying shortly after Mr. Y, the money would go straight to the children which may not be the best outcome:
  - if they are high income earners
  - if there is a threat of business litigation (immediately or in the future)
  - should a relationship fail as 50% as assets would be caught up in any settlements or disputes

Benefits:

- Peace of mind, knowing all your wishes are detailed to be carried out, and plans articulated for your immediate family to be adequately provided for in the event of your death.
- If your Will incorporates a testamentary trust, your assets would pass into a discretionary trust (or multiple trusts) and be held for the benefit of your beneficiaries, (rather than directly by them).
- This could be determined on an annual basis having regard to each beneficiary's personal income and taxation circumstances (importantly, income distributed from a testamentary trust to minors is taxed at normal adult marginal tax rates), as well as family circumstances (assets held within a testamentary trust may provide some protection in the event of family breakdown or bankruptcy).

Non Estate Assets

It is important your estate planning arrangements incorporate your entire asset base.

Recommendation:

- We recommend you consult an approved legal practitioner. We have an arrangement with Lakeside Lawyers Pty Ltd who will be able to assist you with this.

Although a Will constitutes a vital part of your estate planning arrangements, not all of your assets are automatically subject to the provisions of a Will. Examples of such 'assets' are as follows:

- Superannuation assets – the Trustee of a superannuation fund is required to distribute your superannuation monies (including any life insurance benefits paid as a result of the death of the member) in accordance with the Trust Deed. You usually have the option of informing the Trustee of your preferences in relation to the distribution of your funds, but this may or may not be binding on the Trustee.
- Jointly held assets – if assets are held as 'joint tenants', then upon the death of one of the owners the asset automatically passes in full to the other owner (no matter what is said in the Will of the deceased co-owner). On the other hand, assets held as 'tenants in common' are able to be disposed of as part of a Will.
- Life insurance policies – depending on the ownership of the policy, benefits can be paid to the following - the deceased's estate and therefore distributed through their Will (when the owner of the policy is also the insured person) - a person who has been nominated as the beneficiary of a policy by the deceased owner (in which - case the beneficiary automatically receives the proceeds of the policy) - or any third party who owns the policy.
- Assets owned by a Trust – these assets are legally owned by the Trustee of the Trust and therefore are not able to be dealt with through a person's Will.

(Note: In recent times, the use of Trusts as an estate planning vehicle has become wide spread and your solicitor or other business adviser should be consulted if you wish to exercise a measure of control over the way in which Trust assets are managed or distributed. For example if a company acts as trustee for a Trust, you may retain an interest in the company and therefore the trust by owning shares in that company.)

- Assets owned by a company – only the deceased's shares in the company may be dealt with through their Will.

Powers of Attorney

This element of your estate plan is designed to be implemented prior to your death so that your affairs can be conducted appropriately.

Recommendation:

- We recommend you consult an approved legal practitioner to ensure you have suitable Powers of Attorney in place.
- We have an arrangement with Lakeside Lawyers Pty Ltd who will be able to assist you with this.
- We recommend you consult Lakeside Lawyers Pty Ltd for a review every three years.

There are three 'standard' types of Power of Attorney:

- A general Power of Attorney which can provide the donee with restricted or unrestricted authority over the donor's financial affairs (but not their health care). Such a policy lapses if the donor loses mental capacity.
- An enduring Power of Attorney which provides the donee with authority over the donor's financial affairs (but not their health care) until they die (i.e. it extends beyond any loss of mental capacity).
- An enduring medical Power of Attorney which provides the donee with authority over the medical needs of the donor if the donor himself is unable to make such decisions (whether temporarily or permanently).

Note 1 - A Power of Attorney may only be granted by someone who is over the age of 18 and who is of sound mind at the time of the grant and capable of fully understanding the nature and purpose of the document they are signing.

Note 2 - The attorney is not able to do anything illegal while operating under a Power of Attorney, nor is he/she able to sign a Will on behalf of the donor, or to transfer the Power of Attorney to someone else unless authorised to do so.
